Private/Small Group Instruction

Workshops not your thing? Or maybe your availability doesn't jive with the upcoming workshops schedule? Or you just want your lesson to be customized to you. Consider private lessons for some quality one-on-one instruction at your home at a time convenient for you. Pair up with a buddy or two and increase the fun and decrease the cost.

Beginning Watercolor I
A one-day watercolor workshop

A class for the absolute beginner. Learn some basic watercolor techniques in the morning and paint your first painting in the afternoon (see example above). I’ve kept the Supply List to a minimum (I bring most everything you need) so you can see if you like watercolors before spending a bunch of moolah. 😊

How long is it? Six hours, plus a half hour lunch break. Offered once a quarter on a Saturday, Summers off. 10:00 am - 4:30 pm.

Who should attend? Specifically geared toward the Absolute beginner...someone who has never painted before (and maybe even thinks they can’t). 😊 Others might be interested too because my style of watercolors is different. I like to paint very loose and excel at the wet-into-wet watercolor technique. So even if you’ve painted before you’ll likely learn some new things; especially if you’re looking to loosen up or not be so tight or controlled.

Where is it held? Various Kennewick, WA area high schools. I teach this class through Kennewick Community Education. You can see their website here.

What does it cost? $39 registration fee to Kennewick Community Ed, plus a $15 materials fee to me the day of class.

Is there a Supply List? Yes, a little one. 😊 See it here.

Beginning Watercolor II
A one-day watercolor workshop

So, you’ve decided you like watercolors and would like more? In this two-project workshop, we’ll review and practice basic techniques, learn some new ones, play a little bit with special techniques to create textures, and play with some special materials as well.

How long is it? Six hours, plus a half hour lunch break. Offered every other quarter on a Saturday, Summers off. 10:00 am - 4:30 pm.

Who should attend? Beginners. Watercolor I class is not required, but may be helpful. Non-beginners might be interested too because my style of watercolors is different. I like to paint very loose and excel at the wet-into-wet watercolor technique. So even if you’ve painted before you’ll likely learn some new things; especially if you’re looking to loosen up or not be so tight or controlled.

Where is it held? Various Kennewick, WA area high schools. I teach this class through Kennewick Community Education. You can see their website here.

What does it cost? $39 registration fee to Kennewick Community Ed, plus a $15 materials fee to me the day of class. If you have your own supplies, we can negotiate a reduced rate. This class does use some special materials, however, so a materials fee of at least $5 will be appreciated.

Is there a Supply List? Yes, a little one. 😊 See it here.

Beginning Watercolor III

A one-day watercolor workshop

So, you’re still diggin’ this watercolor thing and would like more? In this two-project (maybe three) workshop, we’ll review and practice techniques and focus on composition and the stages of a painting.

How long is it? Six hours, plus a half hour lunch break. Offered every other quarter on a Saturday, Summers off. 10:00 am - 4:30 pm.

Who should attend? Beginners. Watercolor I or II class is not required, but some watercolor experience will be very helpful. Non-beginners might be interested too because my style of watercolors is different. I like to paint very loose and excel at the wet-into-wet watercolor technique. So even if you’ve painted before you’ll likely learn some new things; especially if you’re looking to loosen up or not be so tight or controlled.

Sweet Bounty
A half-day watercolor workshop

A short, project-oriented workshop where we’ll practice applying the three stages of a painting to create the image above, Sweet Bounty. Plus, we’ll play with sponge pouncers to create cherries and have an opportunity to practice using a rigger brush.

How long is it? Four hours. Offered periodically based on demand.

Who should attend? Advanced beginners to intermediate.

Where is it held? Westcliffe neighborhood, Richland, WA. It’s a classroom in a private residence with a beautiful view.

What does it cost? $50

Is there a Supply List? Bring your favorite brushes and paints and watercolor stuff. I’ll supply the sponge pouncers that we use for this project. Sheets of paper will be available for purchase. Also provided: water buckets, misters, plexi boards. If you haven’t made the investment into your own watercolor supplies yet, pay me $15 I’ll provide everything you need.

Mindfulness Through Art:
Playing with Paint to Get Present

An evening session of painting meditation with watercolors

Art can wake us up from the dream we normally live in. Art can shock us into the present moment. When we fully immerse ourselves in a creative project we activate a different part of our brain. We tune out the left brain (the logical, rational side) and allow the right brain (the artist within) to shine through.

Once class begins, we'll settle into quiet. You'll be encouraged to pay attention to your respective projects and just let it flow. At first this may seem like work, but after a few minutes of actually paying attention—to the texture of the paper, the feel of the brush in hand, the smells, the sounds---something may shift. The time may fly by and there may be no thoughts apart from what’s happening in the present...an exercise in mindfulness.

How long is it? 2½ hours. Offered approximately every other month in the evening.

Who should attend? Anyone. No watercolor experience necessary, but experience OK too.

Where is it held? Therapy Solutions, 1455 Columbia Drive, Richland, WA

What does it cost? $45

Is there a Supply List? No. Everything is provided.

Diving in Deep

An full-day watercolor workshop in textures and techniques

This workshop is all about textures and a bunch of other wild watercolor techniques. We’ve probably all played with salt and watercolors before, but did you know you can use freeze dried coffee in your watercolor painting? Well, you can! Come to class to learn and play.

Presented by two Instructors: Suzi Vitulli and me.

How long is it? Seven hours. Offered one to two times per year based on demand.

Who should attend? Any level.

Where is it held? Westcliffe neighborhood, Richland, WA. It’s a classroom in a private residence with a beautiful view.

What does it cost? $125

Is there a Supply List? When you register, your confirmation message includes more details (like the Supply List). Suzi and I will be bringing a lot of the supplies that we’ll be playing with. Sheets of paper will be available for purchase. Also provided: water buckets, misters, plexi boards

Wine & Watercolors™ / Brews & Brushes™
A 2½ hour art-as-entertainment experience in a public setting

Fun with paint combined with a little liquid inspiration and good friends.

Like a Pampered Painter Party™, but held in a public location such as a Winery or Brewery. These events are fun, non-serious art-as-entertainment experiences with watercolors and—um—wine, craft-brewed beer, or great blues music! No experience needed and all art supplies provided. Sipping allowed and laughter encouraged. Great for birthdays and other special occasions, or you might just meet make a new friend. The first beverage is typically on the house and often some yummy snacks as well.

"Thank you Chris, it was super fun! You made us all artists!!"
